Saturday 11 March 2017	7pm for a 7.30pm start	IWD 2017 Silent Film Night Enjoy a free evening under the stars with the National Pioneer Women's Hall of Fame celebrating how our early women filmmakers were indeed #BoldForChange. We will be holding a free public IWD 2017 film night showing The Woman Suffers, from 1918, was an important and controversial film in its time, and remains one of the most significant Australian silent features. The film is a full-scale melodrama of town and country, with sumptuous settings and high fashions, noted for its thoughtful expose of the double standard of morality – "The woman suffers – while the man goes free". The film has been called 'Australia's first feminist feature film', and this concentration on the plight of womanhood is evidence of the input of Lottie Lyell, a pioneer in the early Australian film industry. A critical and commercial success in 1918, the film was banned in NSW.	2 Stuart Terrace Alice Springs	National Pioneer Women's Hall of Fame	Free - Includes free light supper and drinks	Bookings not required Jeanette Shepherd National Pioneer Women's Hall of Fame 08 8952 9006 www.pioneerpwomen.com.au operations@pioneerwomen.com.au
