

Policy: Delegations and Authorised Officer Powers

Policy Purpose

To explain how authority for exercising powers under the Care and Protection of Children Act (the Act) and accompanying Regulations is assigned; responsibilities in exercising those powers and requirements regarding use of a Territory Families Authorised Officer Photo ID Card.

Policy Statement

Delegation of CEO Powers

The Act gives the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) a number of powers and functions in order to achieve the objects of the Act. The CEO may delegate these powers and functions to a Territory Families employee.

Delegated powers can be identified in the Act where it says, for example, 'the CEO must', or 'the CEO may'.

Section 6(2) of the Act states that anyone exercising a power or function under the Act must uphold the principles of the Act, which are in Part 1.3 of the Act.

The CEO powers and functions are delegated to Territory Families staff in writing, through the mechanism of a signed legal instrument and accompanying Delegation Schedule. The schedule sets out the sections of the Act that contain specific powers and functions and the positions, including the title and level, which are delegated those powers and functions.

From time to time an employee may be called on to perform the duties of another position, for example an Out of Home Care employee may be called on to work on an investigation into alleged harm to a child in the CEO's care. In this capacity they are temporarily fulfilling the duties of a Child Protection Practitioner and have the delegated powers and functions of that position.

When an employee is performing the duties of another position, they must record in the child's file that they are fulfilling the duties of that position. Managers must ensure the employee has the appropriate LAN and Community Care Information System (CCIS) access to record decisions and actions associated with their delegated powers and functions.

It is a Manager's responsibility to ensure that any person occupying a position with delegations, even on a temporary basis, has the knowledge and skills to adequately perform the powers and functions they are delegated.

It is an employee's responsibility to familiarise themselves with the powers delegated to their position.

Appointment as an Authorised Officer

In order to undertake some statutory care and protection duties, employees must be appointed as an Authorised Officer. Authorised officers are appointed by the Chief Executive Officer or the Deputy Chief Executive Officer and can exercise the powers and perform the functions that are specified in the Instrument of authorisation.

Authorised Officer powers can be identified in the Act where it refers to 'authorised officer'.

It is the responsibility of the Manager to ensure that all new employees are adequately trained to carry out Authorised Officer functions prior to requesting their appointment. Completion of mandatory pre-service training is a prerequisite for appointment as an authorised officer.

Under no circumstances should an employee be directed to perform the functions of an Authorised Officer until they have been appointed by the CEO or the Deputy Chief Executive Officer.

Territory Families Authorised Officer Photo ID Card

Section 305 of the Act requires that an officer appointed as an authorised officer by the CEO or their delegate must be issued with a photo ID Card, specifying the officer's name and office (position), powers and functions, and containing their signature, a recent photo and verification of the signature and photo by the CEO or delegate.

The Territory Families Authorised Officer Photo ID Card (the ID Card) is valid as long as the employee continues to be an authorised officer under the Act. Should they cease to be an authorised officer, the card must be returned within one month for destruction. Failure to return the ID card is an offence under the Act.

ID Cards are valid for five years from the date of issue, unless otherwise stated.

Officers on contracts will be issued with an ID Card for the period of their contract. If the contract is extended a new card must be requested. The expired card must be returned to the Security Issuing Office for destruction.

Authorised officers must carry their Territory Families Authorised Officer Photo ID Card with them at all times when performing duties under the Act. The ID Card should be presented during the first contact with people whilst performing statutory duties, and produced at other times if asked to do so.

Employees are to take all reasonable steps to ensure that their ID Card is kept in a secure location and protected from misuse.

The issuing of Territory Families Authorised Officer Photo ID Card is recorded on the employee's PIPS record as a security item. The card must be returned to the Security Issuing Office for destruction when the officer's employment ceases.

Revocation of appointment as an authorised officer

A person ceases to require appointment as an authorised officer when they:

- cease to be an employee
- change jobs and the new job does not require the exercise of authorised officer powers
- change jobs and require different authorised officer powers e.g. being appointed as a Manager or above.

When an employee ceases to require appointment as an Authorised Officer, the Manager must ensure their appointment is revoked.
