

Tennant Creek Youth Action Plan 2020-2022

Aboriginal Acknowledgement

The Tenant Creek Youth Action Group proudly acknowledges the Traditional Owners of country, the Warumungu people and recognises their continuing connection to their lands, waters and communities. We pay our respects to Elders past, present and emerging.

Tenant Creek is the home of the oldest living culture in the world, where we have thousands of years of Pujjali (ceremonies) and care for country that makes it strong. We have Winkarra (Dreamtime) stories and Wumpurarni (Aboriginal) cultural protocols and Law, totems and country logos and marks, and we are proud of the work done on mines and on cattle stations. We are proud fighters for equal pay as stockmen for the Warumungu Land Claim, and the first place in Australia to start a Night Patrol. Our heritage joins Aboriginal people with many languages in a multicultural community with people living here from all over the world.

Foreword

Young people are the future and their positive development is vital for healthy, harmonious and prosperous communities.

Empowering young people to be a strong voice for themselves, for their mates, their families and their community is vital for their development, and helps deliver a positive future for us all.

Tennant Creek is at the heart of the Barkly region and is the regional hub for this large area. The township of Tennant Creek is on Patta native title land. The Tennant Creek Youth Action Group (Action Group) is pleased to release the Tennant Creek Youth Action Plan 2020-2022. This plan has been developed with the community and is full of opportunity for young people, families, service providers and government of all levels to talk together, walk together and take action together to improve outcomes for the young people of Tennant Creek.

The Action Group was formed to lead the development of youth focused action planning and ensure that young people have a voice in developing local solutions. The Action Group, is made up of representatives from government and non-government agencies, service providers and community organisations. The Action Group recognises the resilience, strength and vision of the young people in Tennant Creek, and their desire to make positive change.

The starting point for the development of the Tennant Creek Youth Action Plan 2020-2022 (the Plan) was to identify strengths and assets of the Tennant Creek community including current planning that increases the focus on young people. The Barkly Youth Service Provider Network's Youth Strategy and youth consultation findings, and the Northern Territory Police's Tennant Creek Community Safety Action Plan, align with and have contributed to this Plan.

Support for the Action Group came from the Northern Territory Government plan Safe, Thriving and Connected: Generational Change for Children and Families 2018-2023 and the Regional Youth Services Framework. The Framework aims to improve outcomes for young people through local decision-making and the development of youth action plans. Each region of the Northern Territory has established a local youth action group tasked to identify and outline goals and priorities that meet the needs of young people, create opportunities and strengthen partnerships in their community.

The Barkly Regional Deal and its significant investment to support the economic and social development of the region, through a tripartite agreement between the Commonwealth Government, Northern Territory Government and Barkly Regional Council, is important work that contributes to supporting young people. Of the Barkly Regional Deal's 28 initiatives there are many that have a direct or an indirect youth focus. These include: Youth Infrastructure, Community Sports and Recreation, Crisis Youth Support, Student Boarding Accommodation, Trauma Informed Care, Youth Justice programs and an Alternative to Detention Facility and service model, and a Business Hub alongside the broader regional Workforce Strategy.

The Action Group identified a number of key themes that underpin the goals of the Plan. These themes include partnerships in the youth sector to deliver programs that provide physical, social, culturally safe wellbeing outcomes for young people. They offer support for families, build infrastructure and enhance the sector's capacity to provide preventive and early intervention practices, learning opportunities and transitions into employment. The Action Group is committed to working together for the benefit of young people.

What the Young People of Tenant Creek told us

Young people in Tenant Creek are strong and proud of the community's spirit. They desire a safe and respectful environment with access to a variety of opportunities they need for their wellbeing and growth.

Our young people have hopes for Tenant Creek and want to work with the community to strengthen the community. A large number said they aspired to be a community leader and a majority said they wanted a strong voice in the issues and decisions for their town.

Young people in Tenant Creek have told the Action Group to focus on the resources already in Tenant Creek, and to build on these community strengths to support positive change. Our young people emphasised community spirit, the friendliness and togetherness of our people, and the supportive networks that help each other in times of need. Young people said Tenant Creek is strong. They identified examples of six broad types of community assets we have in this community that are the foundations for building this Plan, including:

1. Skills and abilities of individuals within the community:

Help each other, care for kids, old people and our families; we speak up for our community; good at sports; very practical and can do a lot with only a little bit; fix up bikes motor bikes, cars and bikes; know about country and where we came from; good at hunting and caring for our country; welcome people from many different cultures and language groups living and working together.

2. Voluntary community organisations and networks helping the community:

Volunteers for Night Patrol help keep the community safe; attend many community meetings about country, about how to care for each other; join playgroups with kids and grandkids, do babysitting and childcare, run sporting clubs and support each other wherever we live.

3. Our physical environment, both natural and built.

This land has wide open country, big skies, clean air, homelands to visit, creeks, waterholes, trees, hills, lots of birds and other wildlife, the Hospital, the new Anyinginyi building, the Pink Palace, Community Living Areas and houses.

4. Local economy, including the non-cash economy as well as the cash economy of commercial production, consumption and trade.

Keep Aboriginal ceremony and culture strong, build houses, run disability support, child care, family support, aged care, health and education services, operate retail shops, tourism, cattle, mining and land management businesses, the community Market, buy/swap/sell, and the Nyinkka Nyunyu Arts and Culture Centre.

5. Stories, culture and heritage of the community:

Tenant Creek is the home of the oldest living culture in the world, where we have thousands of years of Pujjali (ceremonies) and care for country that makes it strong, we have Winkarra (Dreamtime) stories and Wumpurarni (Aboriginal) cultural protocols and Law, totems and country logos and marks, and proud of the work done on mines and on cattle stations, we are proud fighters for equal pay as stockmen for Warumungu Land Claim, and the first place in Australia to start a Night Patrol. Our heritage joins Aboriginal people with many languages in a multicultural community with people living here from all over the world.

6. Institutions connected together in the community, including Aboriginal community-controlled organisations, other non-government organisations, government agencies, and businesses:

Tenant Creek has many new and well-established community organisations, services, clubs and councils that collectively support young people, their families and communities.

Cultural connection is important to young people in Tennant Creek. Young people responded about the jobs they would like to have, and a lot of thought about work-readiness through personal development, training and job opportunities. Young people shared their thoughts on leadership qualities and a third of the youth said they aspire to be a leader in the community – this is really exciting for the future of Tennant Creek.

Young people also identified their concerns, and possible solutions to issues such as family violence, alcohol, drugs, smoking, self-harm and suicide, mental health, youth justice, education, employment, racism/discrimination, self-respect/being respected and being heard. Young people expressed that they want:

- more youth workers including those that can help friends and family with alcohol and drug issues
- effective family resolution and more family support to help build strong families
- stronger school engagement and training opportunities for all young people
- more employment opportunities for young people
- refreshed recreational facilities and places for young people to hang out; and
- improved access to programs and services, including going out bush and programs in homelands.

“Dancing and arts and make a time where people can explain how certain things work in the cultural way.”

“Play, learn and grow together.”

“Can teach us valuable lessons and shape us into the best leaders we can be.”

“How to act in situation regarding alcohol and drugs.”

“A good paying job to support family.”

“Confidence and no shame job.”

“Yes, I can do anything if possible.”

“Keep building positive relationships.”

“Be there and not judge.”
